THANK YOU

Charity helping the homeless swamped with gifts and cash from Star readers

KIND-hearted Star readers have responded magnificently to our appeal to help Harlow's only homeless charity by giving thousands of pounds worth of donations.

The campaign to help Streets2Homes, which is facing a financial battle to keep going, is only in its fourth week but has already generated huge amounts of support.

People have been giving food, clothing, bedding, cash and cheques which have been handed in to the charity's base in Wych Elm and the Star's office in West Gate.

Manager Patsy Dye said more than £1,000 worth of cheques had been handed in to the centre in the past seven days alone. "I have always held in high regard the community of Harlow and I am really proud of the community in which I live," she said.

By LOUISE SASSOON

Among the many donations the charity has received are a cheque for £500 from the pupils of Passmore School, money from a Year 7 pupil of Stewards School who emptied his penny jar and and £5 from the pension of an elderly couple.

Mrs Dye said the charity had also been presented with televisions and other items including matting and blankets from Ripped Gym in Wych Elm.

"A big thank you for ensuring the homeless feel loved," she added.

Charity patron Robert Halfon said he was overwhelmed by the kindness of the public, especially given the fact most are feeling the affects of the credit crunch.

"People are putting the homeless before themselves and it really is a tribute to everybody in Harlow," he said. "I would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Streets2Homes, the only charity of its kind in Harlow to offer practical support and advice to those who come through its doors six days a week, still needs more support.

It costs around £34,000 a year to stay open and relies heavily on donations from the public.

To make a donation, drop into the Star office at 6 West Gate or call Mrs Dye on (01279) 430011.

Essex 'failing in childcare duty'

ESSEX County Council is failing in its duty of care to protect schoolchildren, according to Harlow MP Bill Rammell. Citing Ofsted's Annual Performance Assessment which last week called Essex's work to safeguard children 'inadequate', Mr Rammell said it was time for County Hall to face up to its responsibilities.

"This demonstrates that Essex is failing children in the county," he said. "I first made representations on this last year when this issue was brought to my attention by Harlow schools and I wrote to the county council with case studies demonstrating where their service had proven woefully inadequate. Ofsted's assessment deemed four areas to be providing inadequate children's services overall, and a further five areas – including Essex – as providing inadequate safeguarding services."

A county council spokesman said it acknowledges the report's conclusions and is continuing to rectify areas of weakness.

Drugs pair must wait for sentence

TWO men who admitted possessing £1,300 worth of cocaine with intent to supply are due to be sentenced at Chelmsford Crown Court next month.

Darren Mills (30) and Patrick Orange (28), both of Rushes Mead, Harlow, will return to court on January 19 to learn their fate.

Community in fine voice for concert

HUNDREDS of red-cheeked residents braved the cold on Sunday evening for a cracker of a community carol concert.

Organised by Harlow Rotary Club and held in Market Square, the event saw youngsters from William Martin Junior School sing a selection of seasonal favourites accompanied by Harlow Concert Band.

Rotary club member John Wright said: "We wanted to bring the whole community together for Christmas and, considering this was the first time we've put on such a concert, it was a great success."

Ambulance ordeal for injured OAP

A PENSIONER had to endure a freezing wait in the street when an ambulance took two hours to get to her.

Alzheimer's sufferer Gladys Marshall (88), of Long Ley, Harlow, went missing from her home and was found later in the afternoon complaining of a painful knee by a passer-by who called for an ambulance.

But although an early-response paramedic car was on the scene quickly, an ambulance took two hours to arrive because crews were busy dealing with other calls.

By LOUISE SASSOON

News Editor
sassoona@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Ambulance chiefs have apologised for what they described as an isolated incident.

Mrs Marshall's neighbour Pamela Lewin said: "We were sitting there with her and a man who had driven past earlier said he couldn't believe we were still waiting."

"If it wasn't for the quilts that people came out and gave her she would have been frozen. I was scared she was going to die of hypothermia."

An East of England Ambulance Service spokeswoman said a paramedic responded to the incident within the 19-minute target set for that category of emergency.

She added: "The service in Harlow and the surrounding area was suffering from a high number of calls that day."

"We are very sorry that this patient faced the wait which she did and would certainly value the opportunity to speak with anyone concerned about her welfare."

"It was an isolated incident for which we are very sorry."

Extending help to the disabled

A CHARITY is calling for volunteers to help provide a service offering independence and confidence to disabled people in the district.

The Essex Coalition of Disabled People is branching out into Harlow and West Essex after gaining lottery funding.

But to do so it needs to recruit a new legion of volunteers to help it succeed in its mission to reach out to the disabled.

EDCP will be joining forces with Rainbow Services and the Voluntary Services Forum, both based in Harlow, to launch a new initiative called The Independent Visiting Scheme which is aimed at anyone over the age of 18.

The volunteers will offer friendship and a helping hand to disabled people who have previously shied away from contact to gain the confidence they need to start living life to the full again.

EDCP area co-ordinator Tony Purcell said: "This scheme helps to empower and support local disabled people. Quite often our clients become volunteers after the help they have received."

The charity, run by disabled people for disabled people, is dedicated to helping the 16 per cent of the county's population who are disabled in one way or another.

"It could help give clients the confidence to do simple things, for example like getting on the bus to go for a haircut," said Mr Purcell. "After that we hope that they are then able to do these things of their own."

"A lot of people do not know that we exist. I hope this scheme will encourage them to take part in community life."

For more information on gaining help or to offer your services as a volunteer, send an email to tpurcell@ecdp.org.uk

Festive family fun

CHRISTMAS came early for more than 50 lucky children who were treated to a slap-up meal and a visit from Santa.

Pitney Bowes, in the Pinnacles, joined forces with the charity Harlow Homestart for the fourth year running to treat young families to the festive feast.

The youngsters tucked into chicken nuggets and jelly and ice cream before they were visited by Santa who handed out toys bought with money kindly donated by staff at the company.

Age concerned

A CHARITY is calling upon Harlow's residents to donate their unwanted Christmas gifts and wardrobe cast-offs in a bid to replenish stock.

Staff at the Age Concern shop in West Gate have noticed over the past few weeks that not as many people have been donating clothing and bric-a-brac, which it relies on to raise funds

An Age Concern spokeswoman said: "We have had some good items but things have slowed down recently. We would like any good quality clothing or bric-a-brac to sell."

Party pleasure

THE hosts of an awards party held to celebrate the sporting achievements of children with special needs have said they were happy to have helped supported the event.

Best Parties Ever catered and supplied the venue for the annual Presidents Sporting Club lunch which was held at North Weald Airfield earlier this month.

The event gave the youngsters the chance to rub shoulders with sporting celebrities including former world heavyweight boxing champion Frank Bruno and Olympic silver medal winning rowing cox Acer Nethercott.

Public flock to community centre's life-size nativity

A LIFE-size nativity scene has been proving a hit with the residents of Harlow.

Hundreds of people visited the Church Langley Community Centre to see the seasonal arrangement which took over the chapel area of the hall as part of a project to spread the word about the true meaning of Christmas.

£4m windfall to aid regeneration

HOUSING and infrastructure projects in Harlow are set to benefit from an extra £4m Government windfall.

Housing minister Margaret Beckett announced the cash injection as part of the latest Growth Areas Funding Scheme.

Although it is not yet known how the money will be spent, it is likely to be focused on further infrastructure projects, as well as paving the way for regenerating a number of key housing estates.

The cash, awarded to the London-Harlow-Stansted Partnership, led by Harlow Council and including Harlow

Renaissance plus four other local authorities, has been welcomed by the town's political leaders who have been working on a cross-party basis for five years to meet regeneration needs and attract Government and private sector funding.

It comes on the back of substantial Government grants already awarded to the town, including £9.9m towards regenerating Potter Street, Clifton Hatch, Staple Tie and Old Harlow – work which is currently ongoing – as well as £7m in 2007 to go towards projects to improve electricity infrastructure, provide eco and older people's housing, and develop a traffic model for Harlow dubbed an important stepping stone to securing investment for a bypass.

Speaking about the latest grant, council leader Andrew Johnson said: "We are delighted to receive this funding against such tough competition. However, we do need much more to meet our infrastructure needs and the council and its partners will continue to press for more."

"Regenerating Harlow is of enormous importance to the council but will also require on-going investment and commitment from the Government and private sector."

"Harlow Council is proud to be taking the lead on such important work for the region but it's recognition of the strength of the Partnership that we've been successful."

Midwives set for a not-so-silent night

MUMS and midwives met up for a Christmas carol singalong at the Sure Start children's centre in Harlow.

Jane Walker, who organised the event, played the guitar while a choir of mums, who gave birth during the past year, sang a selection of traditional songs and enjoyed mince pies and tea.

Chris Remfry, who works at the children's centre, said: "It was great to have the mums back here."

"The midwives will definitely be working on Christmas day as there are a lot of babies due!"

Police ask shoppers for their wish lists

CHRISTMAS shoppers have been telling police what they want to see from the county force next year by filling in wish lists.

Essex Police Authority's

'All I Want For Christmas...' campaign stopped off at Harlow's Harvey Centre where around 75 people filled in a list stating the top three things they expect from the police next year.

The list included quicker response times, a further crackdown on anti-social behaviour and more bob-bies on the beat.

However, many said they were totally satisfied with the service they already received and therefore had no wishes.

Survey seeks parking relief

A MAJOR study seeking to combat parking problems in housing estates in Harlow is under way in a move which could see developers having to provide more spaces per household.

Council chiefs have posted questionnaires to thousands of residents living in The Dashes and The Hides, asking them what they think could be done to improve the situation.

Residents throughout the town are

By LOUISE SASSOON

News Editor

sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk

also being asked to send in their ideas to councillors via email.

Information gathered will go towards improving parking in the town and could even see councillors push for changes to the Local Plan, which currently states developers have to provide only 1.5 spaces per unit for new developments.

Linda Pailing, chairman of the council's scrutiny committee which is undertaking the review, said it could also result in parking restrictions and residents parking bays.

"We are not looking for horrendously expensive options because there is not the funding, but we want to find out what can be done to improve problems in the town," she said.

"At the moment, all we can do is recommend to another committee that they take action."

She said most households have 2-3 cars and that the committee could push for the local plan to be changed, depending on the feedback given.

Results of the consultation are expected to be collated by next April.

Petition calling for job security

A PETITION calling on the Government to safeguard thousands of threatened jobs in two struggling High Street retailers has been signed by more than 200 Harlow residents.

Initiated by the Socialist Worker newspaper on behalf of staff facing redundancy from Woolworths and MFI, which both have stores in the town, the petition challenges the Prime Minister to nationalise firms which cannot guarantee jobs.

It also calls on trades unions to mount protests to ensure there is "no return to 1980s-style unemployment", insisting higher taxes for top earners could help fund a jobs bailout.

However, Harlow MP Bill Rammell said the Government is already taking steps to help employees facing redundancy in the New Year, adding: "The demise of companies like Woolworths and MFI is devastating news for shop staff, many of whom have worked in the stores for many years."

"The Government is seeking to protect ordinary working people from the ravages of the international economic downturn whilst the Tories would just let the recession rip."

Debbie's change of luck

A MUM-of-two plagued by bad luck has been given a boost after winning a haul of goodies.

Debbie Ellis (28), of Joyner's Field, Harlow, was made redundant last month. Then, last weekend, her car broke down twice in rush-hour traffic.

But just when she was thinking she would have a rotten

Christmas, she was picked as the winner of a Harvey Centre competition.

Among the gifts donated by the centre's stores were shopping vouchers worth more than £200, a Marks & Spencer turkey and a tree from Wilkinson's.

"This is perfect," she said. "I hadn't bought my turkey but we already had our tree so I'm giving this one to my nan, whose house caught fire last week."

"It seems like bad luck has run in our family for the past few months, but not anymore!"

In the spirit of the season, Mrs Ellis said she would be sharing her prizes with her son Kaiden (5) and daughter Tiana (2).

Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young, pictured presenting Mrs Ellis with her prizes, said: "We are delighted to be supporting a local family and thank all of our shoppers for their support over the past year."

JEROUNDS: Pupils were treated to festive visitors in the shape of Father Christmas and one of his reindeer when he dropped into the Pyenest Road during his last few days off before his big night. Children told him what they wanted and also got to stroke his four-legged helper.

CHURCH LANGLEY: Pupils sang their hearts out for charity with renditions of Christmas carols outside Sainsbury's in Fifth Avenue, Harlow.

Shoppers were treated to festive favourites such as The 12 Days of Christmas and Silent Night from a 20-strong choir aged 9-11.

About £400 was raised for Littlehaven's Children's Hospice from this and other charity events.

ST ALBAN'S: Youngsters celebrated Christmas in their own way when they performed their own version of A Christmas Carol.

The festive show, involving the whole school, combined aspects from both A Christmas Carol and The Sound of Music, alongside elements of a traditional nativity.

Teacher Janet Price said: "It all went very well; we had lots of positive feedback from parents."

NURSERY: Toddlers were treated to a special Christmas visit from two reindeer from Pets Corner as part of their annual Christmas celebrations. Deputy manager Rachel Blackwell said: "They really enjoyed it. This was the first year we have done something like this and we hope to do it again next year."

ABBOTSWELD: Infants put in a convincing performance when they added their own modern twist to a traditional nativity play, introducing rock and classical music while centring the story on Joseph, above. Meanwhile, children in Year 4 wowed audiences with their version of the story, right, breaking tradition at the end to lead the audience in a rendition of Merry Christmas Everybody by Slade.

The school raised more £200 from the event for Great Ormond Street Hospital, where one of its pupils is receiving treatment.

LEAPFROG NURSERY: Children got into the Christmas spirit when they staged a show of singing, acting and dancing. Toddlers sang Christmas carols around the Christmas tree while the older ones put their acting ability to the test with a nativity play. Nursery nurse Nikki Dye said: "They all did really well! They were all very interested in throwing the straw about the stage!"

ST LUKE'S: Pupils got caught up in the Christmas cheer during their annual school Christmas performance. All year groups got involved as the school stuck to the traditional side of things with a Stable Story, performed in a hall packed with parents. Literacy subject leader Sharon Brand said: "It was lovely, absolutely lovely. It all went to plan, apart from a musical hitch!"

Ready, teddy, lift off!

TWO teddy bears looked down on earth this month after being launched into space.

The bears, named MATT and KMS, were sent on their journey in a Cambridge University air balloon which soared to an altitude of more than 19 miles.

While students from the university's Space Flight science club built the giant helium weather balloon for the mission, pupils from a local school created the foam and foil space suits to stop the teddies being frozen solid.

The four-hour flight "blasted off" from Churchill College. A laptop computer tracked temperature, height and position and transmitted results back to Earth.

Henry Hallam, one of the university students who led the experiment, said: "We asked the children to build the space suits for the teddy bears and we monitored the temperatures inside and outside the suits. "It was still pretty cold for the bears but they would be frozen solid if they didn't have their suits."

The bears were brought safely down to earth by specially designed parachutes.

ST Clare Hospice cares for local people across West Essex and East Hertfordshire who have life-limiting illnesses such as cancer.

The services are free to patients and their carers but cost more than £2m every year. The NHS only pays around 30 per cent of this huge sum, which means a significant amount of money has to be raised each year. Relying on the support of local people and organisations for three quarters of its funding, the hospice needs raise at least £2,000 a day to provide the services that are needed so much.

This may seem an impossible task, but with the help of people like you it is possible! Many people take part in physical and challenging events on behalf of St Clare Hospice and report back to say how exhilarating the experience was. From running or walking to overseas treks or skydiving, there is a challenge event to suit you! There is plenty happening in the local community, too. From fetes and craft fairs to quiz nights and dances, why not come along? Hundreds of fundraising events take place every year: they may raise £20 or £2,000, but every one helps. We are grateful to the advertisers on this page for their support: 20 per cent of the revenue generated will be donated to St Clare Hospice.

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
 Mars demands that others listen to what we have to offer. In a natal horoscope it's balanced by other influences, but in your situation now, rarely has it given you such support to break free of the chains of restriction. This can be from those people you perceive as controlling you or it can be from your own timidity. Few times has the escape route been so clear. Call for more...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
 If you're single and would like to embark on a new romantic journey of discovery. Mars, in its sultry union with Pluto, can have a very big impact - giving you an almost mesmeric presence. This could lead to some kind of connection that can prove fated. However, in an on-going tie, things can either be passionate or hugely tempestuous. Call now for your love scope in full...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
 There are certain situations, when it is best to quickly work out when the odds are against us, and to speedily withdraw from any potential for conflict. Bear this in mind this week, for you could find yourself up against a stronger force. Don't let your pride kid you into trying to overcome what's more psychologically based. In the embers of this year, prepare for the battle. Call now for your in-depth forecast...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
 If you have some free time, you may rouse yourself from your slumbers and drive yourself into some kind of practical project. This may be insulating a loft, sound proofing a partition wall, or converting an attic into a spare room. These tasks see you try to gently pick over the others to have their say too - if you want to avoid exchanging sharp words. Call for your in-depth forecast...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
 As you look back on 2008; if improving your health and something on your mind for the coming year, this would be an ideal time to dust off your running shoes or go and buy some new ones. You can feel more energised than for a long time, but this deep need to be more active could also see you walking or swimming. You choose just what. Call for more advice...

Stories crossing the line to add a twist to reality

BEDTIME STORIES

certificate PG, running time 1h 39m

ADAM Sandler stars in this feelgood family movie about stories that come with an unexpected twist in the tale.

He plays Skeeter Bronson, an unassuming hotel handyman who delights in spinning bedtime yarns to his niece and nephew.

But his life – and theirs – is changed forever when the stories start to come true in the real world.

After the kids throw in random ideas such as an adventure ending in a shower of sweets, Skeeter later realises (as he stands in a hail of gumballs) that the power must come from them.

Naturally, Skeeter's keen to use the gift to enrich the family via randomly dropped-in windfall fortunes.

But the children have other ideas and it's their outlandish contributions that turn everybody's lives upside down.

Don't come looking for subtlety, but Sandler's broad and bawdy style is perfectly suited to this kind of knockabout adventure as Skeeter finds himself hurled from one storybook situation to another.

AUSTRALIA

certificate 12A, running time 2h 45m

English aristocrat Lady Sarah Askley (Kidman) travels to the faraway continent after inheriting a vast ranch.

Once there, she meets and, naturally, eventually falls for rough-hewn local chap Drover (Jackman) and reluctantly agrees to join forces with him to save her land.

Together they embark on a journey, driving 2,000 head of cattle across hundreds of miles of the world's most beautiful but most starkly unforgiving terrain, only to end up facing the bombing of Darwin by the same Japanese forces that attacked Pearl Harbour.

In the dark world of a family from Hell

MUM & DAD

(Revolver Entertainment, 18, retail & rental)

Philip Larkin observed "They **** you up, your mum and dad/They may not mean to, but they do" and nowhere is it more true than in this grim, brutal and relentlessly harrowing British film loosely inspired by the exploits of Gloucester serial killers and Fred and Rosemary West.

Lena (a very convincing Olga Fedori) is a young Polish immigrant cleaning at Heathrow Airport, befriends and taken home by co-worker Birdie (Ainsley Howard) after missing her bus one night.

Once inside the bland house at the end of the runway, she's knocked unconscious, drugged and imprisoned to become the tormented plaything of sadistic Mum (Dido Miles) and psychotic Dad (Perry Benson), discovering that failure to please the former means being delivered into the frenzied hands of the latter.

Birdie's just another victim like her, one who – along with mute Elbie (Toby Alexander) – has earned the deranged couple's trust and yet lost herself in a version of Stockholm Syndrome.

Writer/director Steven Sheil does an accomplished job of keeping the focus of this nasty suburban nightmare on Lena's plight and doesn't resort to wallowing exploitatively in the atrocities. A word of warning, however – he doesn't flinch from them either, and at times it's nigh-on unbearable.

It's as if Mike Leigh made a horror film, or a British response to Henry: Portrait Of A Serial Killer (but without that film's disturbing moral blankness); this is a genuinely disturbing and, at times, sickening film, not something you'd watch for entertainment but more that you experience on a much rawer emotional level.

Mum & Dad serves also as a sobering riposte to the unfortunately all-too-commonplace Hollywood treatment of serial killers; these creatures are not 'cool' Chianti-sipping, cultured intellectuals with a penchant for elaborate psychological games of cat and mouse – they're simply dull, lumpen, broken machines grinding their way through grisly, dysfunctional routines and chewing up lives in the process.

The cast here do an amazing job, to the extent that it sometimes feels more like watching a documentary; Miles and Benson in particular give performances of distressing realism. Only at the climax is a wrong note sounded with a spot of wish-fulfilment more at home in The Hills Have Eyes, but it's a forgivable slip and, to be honest, almost a welcome one.

DEATH NOTE: L - CHANGE THE WORLD

(4Digital Asia, 15, retail)

The first two live action Death Note movies were great fun, focusing on a deadly battle of wits between an amoral teenager with the power to kill remotely by naming his victims in a death god's book and the shadowy sleuth L who stands against him.

In the end, L wins – but only by writing his own name in the notebook and pre-ordaining his death in 23 days.

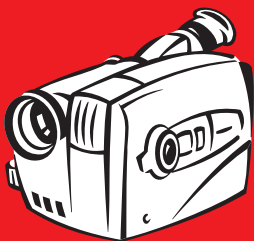

It's a masterstroke that for this last sequel, Ringu director Hideo Nakata and his writers leave the deadly books alone and focus instead on quirky, confectionary-obsessed reclusive L (Ken'ichi Matsuyama).

Alone after the demise of his aide Watari, L spends his final days clearing a backlog of minor cases until he's drawn into a race against time by what appears to be an extremist environmental group hell-bent on unleashing a lethal new strain of the ebola virus to destroy mankind.

With the story switching from horror film to thriller, L is inexorably teased from his intellectual seclusion into a more hands-on engagement with the world, even as time approaches to leave it. Exhilarating, smart and, oddly, very touching.

A second disc of extras includes a making-of, interviews, promotional events, trailers and photo gallery.

Hawks lose two men and then the match

THE Hawks paid the price in more ways than one as they had two men sent off when they lost against 10-man Margate.

Margate were already winning 3-0 when Harlow Town midfielder Leon Lalite was sent off on 80 minutes for a foolish lunge at substitute Aaran Quain.

A minute later, Quain went off for a second bookable offence, a foul on player/boss Ryan Kirby.

Hawks defender Danny Chapman was given his marching orders on 85 minutes for a second bookable offence, a late challenge.

Chapman will miss two games as he also has five other bookings. Lalite will miss at least three, beginning at Dartford on January 3.

Striker Raphael Sylvestre (work experience from Leyton Orient) came on as a substitute at

Margate 3, Harlow Town 0
(Ryman League, premier division)

Margate. New loan signings from Southend United Kyle Asante (substitute) and Craig Calver also played.

Margate went ahead in first half stoppage time when a quick counterattack resulted in Mo Takalobigashi running through to smash the ball home. The issue was settled by two well-taken goals from Margate's Richard Shittu on 67 and 77 minutes.

Harlow host AFC Hornchurch this Saturday.

Kirby sacked from Hawks

GLEN Alzapiedi has been appointed the new first team manager at Harlow Town.

The 44-year-old ex-Ware boss joined the Hawks after chairman Simon Morgan sacked player/boss Ryan Kirby.

Kirby's dismissal came after Harlow's losing sequence continued with a 3-0 defeat at Margate on Saturday, leaving them 19th in the Ryman League premier division.

"This is a good challenge for me," said Alzapiedi. "The priority this season is just to survive in this league and that is achievable."

"I am bringing in players who can have an effect. The players at Harlow have nothing to fear if they like quick-passing football and are able to do it."

The new Hawks boss was forced to resign over apparent budget cuts at Ryman League Division One North club Ware 12 days ago after guiding the Wodson Park club to third spot.

Alzapiedi will have Matt Allen as his number two. His new signings from Ware include former Harlow striker John Frendo, forward Chris Ellerbeck, midfielder Sam Berry and central defender Laurie Stewart.

Kirby, who has coupled playing and managing for 25 months, guided Harlow to promotion from Ryman Division One North at the end of the 2006/07 season, as well as to the first round of the FA Cup this term.

He said: "I am bitterly disappointed. It is a bad run of results. The players are more than good enough and getting it right. I knew I would have turned it around."

Morgan said: "We are in a poor position and the brief for Glen is to get us out of it and to help the club push forward."

"The club would like to thank Ryan for his services and everyone at Barrows Farm wishes him all the best."

Weakened Rams go down to heavy defeat

Saffron Walden 29, Harlow 3
(London Div three north east)

A WEAKENED Rams side lost a vital four-point clash when they went down to a heavy defeat at Saffron Walden. Saturday's result leaves Harlow second from bottom after Mersea Island leapfrogged them by beating Braintree.

Walden, whose speedy backs proved decisive against Harlow, moved up to seventh in the 12-team division, which will see at least one side relegated at the end of the season.

Harlow's next league game is against Enfield Ignatians on January 10 and skipper Paul Eynon said: "We will take a long hard look over the next two weeks at what we need to do."

Harlow were missing forwards Darran Hawkins (ill), Lee Covington (shoulder injury) and Hans Barnard (knee injury) while full back Sean Banks was unavailable. This meant a call-up for lock Kerry Palmer and first team debuts for full back Aled Hills and flanker Jack Elston.

Walden, with the wind in their favour, went ahead after seven minutes when Tom Hughes set up Paul Marshall for an unconverted try.

The hosts extended their advantage to a 12-0 lead on 16 minutes. Adam Miles scored a try wide out and Hughes kicked a good conversion.

Shortly after, Hughes kicked a penalty. The visitors reduced the deficit with a 45th minute McFerran penalty but Walden increased their lead on 52 minutes when Andrew Lancaster powered his way through to touchdown.

Hughes kicked the conversion and the visitors rounded off the scoring on 75 minutes. Home replacement lock Gordon Leonard scored a try in the corner and Hughes kicked the conversion.

HARLOW: Hills, Woodington (C Webb 50), Vanbeck, Powell, Grimley, McFerran, Harron, T Webb, Wilkins, Prindville (Branch 55), Twiner, Palmer (Bowering 50), Roberts, Eynon, Elston.
